CHANGING LIVES FOR JESUS p. 7

HOPE CHANNEL CANADA p. 12

EVERYWHERE, ALL THE TIME

Our mighty God neither slumbers nor sleeps (Ps 121:4). And He promises us, “I will never leave you nor forsake you” (Heb 13:5, NKJV).

Sleep regulates life. And unless you have a vivid dream, sleep is unconscious rest that breaks the activities of your waking hours. Usually, when you sleep, you are not aware of anything happening around you. When my children were babies, my wife would also sleep while they were asleep. Yet even in her deepest sleep, the slightest noise from the nursery would break her rest and she would be wide awake, ready to the baby.

While I can never wrap our heads around the idea that God never sleeps and is always with us, I imagine God’s vigilant care similar to that of a mother’s—always on alert, always ready, always awake, always listening for our cries.

God is eternal. He is omnipresent—everywhere, all the time. Unlike us, God does not need a period of rest; He is always awake and alert. And through the ministry of the Holy Spirit and angels He is always connected and aware of what is happening, ready to respond to the needs of His creation.

Pastor Pardon Mwansa, Hope Channel’s past board chair once said, “Hope Channel preaches even when we are asleep.” That is so true! 24/7, every day, we broadcast the gospel message on 44 channels in 37 languages. Our mission is to bring hope to anyone longing for a Christ-centered new life.

The more places Hope Channel is broadcast, the more effective is our ministry. When I recently checked into a hotel near the San Francisco airport, I noticed a sign: “This Hotel Features DirecTV.” And I remembered a time when you could not get Hope Channel in a hotel! But now, just a click of my remote took me to number 368 where Hope Channel is reaching millions in the U.S. every minute of every day.

Besides its broadcast in the U.S., Hope Channel is seen all across the world, bringing meaning and purpose to many lives. People like Pauline (see page 3) are finding the peace that comes only from God, and are anxious to join a church family.

I am so glad that you help us take God’s good news to every searching heart. I know the programs on Hope Channel are a blessing to you and I want to thank you for your prayer and financial support that make it possible to continue our full-time global ministry of Hope Channel!

What Viewers are Saying

Alone and sick in my hospital bed, I tossed and turned all night long from the torturous pain and depression that wracked my body and soul. My two children were at home crying for me. But with each passing day, I remained bound to my bed, plunging into deeper despair.

One night I prayed, “Sweet Jesus, please come to me and ease my pain.” Minutes later, I switched on the TV and found Hope Sabbath School. In an instant, I felt an amazing sense of peace and comfort, knowing Jesus was right there in the room with His endless love. For the first time in a long time, I slept soundly that night.

I woke up the next morning and guess what? Hope Sabbath School was on again! I started watching regularly and began feeling better. I’m sure it was the Word of God that restored my health. It’s been a beautiful healing journey. The teachings so changed things around for me that I was led to search for a Seventh-day Adventist Church.

—Pauline

I live just outside Los Angeles and am so glad Hope Channel is on free-to-air television. I cancelled my satellite subscription and purchased an indoor antenna to watch Hope Channel for free. I’m going to donate to Hope Channel the money I’m saving each month so others can be fed the Word of God.

—Donna

I live in Ohio and my mother lives in California, but we connect through Hope Channel. Our conversations are usually about the shows we watch and the things we learn from Hope Channel. She even got the Hope Channel app on her phone ... If you knew my mom, you’d know that’s a huge step!

The night my father died I wanted answers.

I wasn't looking for comfort. I wasn't looking for help with funeral expenses (although I needed that too). I was just looking for answers. That's all.

For years—no, for my entire life—I've wanted answers. How could such a wonderful, strong man not be strong enough to fight and defeat the one thing that was going to be the very death of him?

Ever since I can remember, my father had two sides to him—the strong sober dad and the mopey depressive drunk. One taught me to be a man; the other made me afraid that I could never be one. One showed me how to be a good husband; the other taught me that it was okay to make excuses.

One thing my father's sober side had in common with his drunken one was a promise—a promise that things would get better. Yet neither could keep that promise. Eventually, my drunk dad drove his sometimes sober side away for good—and we, his family, were left picking up the pieces of our broken lives. Jobs never lasted, we moved from one home to the next, which was always worse than the previous. Our dinners grew smaller until there was none. Soon the few and sporadic happy times slipped into faraway fuzzy memories—and worst of all, my mother who grew wearier by the day.

We all prayed. We all hoped. And yes, we all continued to love him. But nothing seemed to come of it.

And here's the worst of it all—my dad didn't just die that night. He killed himself.

Why? Wasn't our love wasn't enough for him? Why didn't our prayers bring back the sober dad we loved? Why? These were my questions that night.

And I needed answers. Right there, right then. So I called Hope Channel.

Melanie answered. She listened as I struggled to put my feelings into words. And the more we talked, the more I opened up to her like I'd never opened up to anyone before. I shared with her so much more than I had intended.

Yes, I had questions that arose from my father's alcoholism and suicide. But more relevant to my own life, I had doubts about myself. I had been without a job for almost a year. And during that time I was plagued with the thought that my desperation may also lead me to alcohol. So the night he died, I realized I've always been overshadowed by a fear of becoming my father—not the strong sober one I sometimes saw growing up, but the sad drunk that snuffed out joy from our life.

Melanie saw through me and knew that I needed more than a prayer over the phone. She asked me if she could arrange for a local pastor to visit me. I couldn't believe a stranger could care enough to go the extra mile.

Hope Channel sent someone knocking on my door—and not just to pray, but to help me find answers.

WHEN I NEED..

ANSWERS TO LIFE'S QUESTIONS

It's one of those times when everything that can go wrong goes wrong. It happens to everyone at one time or another, I know. But still, it's tough when there's nothing one can do to make things better.

What's worse, I live in another country, far from my family. I just got here and don't have the money to travel back home to help them. And I don't know anyone here who can comfort me.

First there's my mother. She's suffering from depression and memory loss. She is in dire need of medical care, but my father barely has enough to cover the essentials. Some days she knows it's me on the phone. On other days, I'm just a stranger. This really pains me. My mother was the one who taught me to always hang on to God and be strong no matter what. But now her mind that was once so sharp can no longer reach beyond her feelings of despair. She can no longer tap into her knowledge of Bible promises. I feel like I've already lost my mother.

My sister used to be my mother's caretaker, but now she is sick too. And my mother is left alone at home all day. I fear for her safety and imagine the worst case scenarios—what if she leaves the stove on, what if she falls, what if she lets the wrong person in, what if . . .

My other sister just discovered that her daughter—my niece—has been diagnosed with a terrible disease. Poor little thing, she's in the hospital. I think of how afraid she is, being poked and prodded every day. I wish I were there for her.

All this is so hard on my father. A taxi driver, he works long hours and is gone all day.

I wish I had friends in this strange place, someone to talk to. But I don't. The only solace I have is Hope Channel. It's my virtual community—there I have friends to whom I can unburden myself. And they understand me. And pray for me. And I also pray for others in this community.

When I read of difficulties and problems of others, I know I am not alone in life. There are others like me who have survived by believing in the Lord's power.

Here's what I've learned from my experience:

1. When I help someone else during a difficult time, it helps me take my mind off the things in my life over which I have no control.
2. I need to focus on the things that are going well.
3. I cling to the promise that God will supply all that I need.

We are really nothing. But in God all things are possible. I believe that with more prayer comes more power.

I can't be with my family. I can't help them financially. Yet I am not alone. When I need a friend, Hope Channel is there. Their ministry is more than just broadcasting Christian programs. They are real people who care for me. When I call, there's always some to talk to and personally pray with me.

WHEN I NEED..

When the nurse nodded me towards the scale, I gingerly stood on it, but couldn't bring myself to look down and see the verdict. I knew I had gained a few more pounds since my last visit. Letting out a heavy, embarrassed sigh, I felt the very familiar sense of defeat wash over me.

At five feet five inches, I am shorter than the average guy. So you can imagine what I looked like at 250 pounds. No matter the situation, I was always self-conscious of my appearance. For years I had suffered from depression and other health problems too. Plus I was on disability and lived the life of a classic couch potato—remote in one hand and food in the other.

My doctor, nurses, family, and friends tried to help me make better lifestyle choices. It's not like I didn't know any better; I was stuck in a vicious cycle of making the same bad choices over and over again. I knew that any day I could have a stroke or a heart attack—the chances were especially high since both my parents died from strokes.

When I returned home from the doctor's that day, I fell into the familiar dent in my couch and picked up the remote. "I'm going to find a health show to motivate me," I said to my wife. Having heard this before, she didn't respond. I understood her silence. After all, my resolution was nothing new to her—I always had good intentions right after a doctor's visit.

Flipping through hundreds of channel, I came upon #368 (DirecTV) broadcasting Go Healthy for Good. Dr. Nerida's New Zealand accent was the first thing that caught I attention. I found her voice very easy to listen to. Next I noticed how spunky and excited she was. And for the first time I watched an entire health show.

The next day, I tuned in again. Soon I was learning something new every day. Within a few months I managed to do five sit ups at a stretch—something I had not done in decades.

The day of the five sit-ups was two years ago. Today I weigh 190 pounds and can do 30 sit-ups at one time! I know I have a few more changes to make in my lifestyle, but I feel blessed and grateful to have Hope Channel help me make those changes.

Before Midnight by the Voice of Prophecy

Specifically designed by the Voice of Prophecy, Before Midnight is a training event to help overcome the fears and hesitations experienced when sharing one's faith.

"We all know what we're supposed to be doing, but we're frustrated and maybe even afraid. But there's never been a better moment than now to claim your place in God's work. The simple things are working better than they ever have," says VOP Speaker/Director Shawn Boonstra.

Register for this free event at voplocal.com, and learn how you can effectively share the gospel message and help your church grow.

*Hope Channel Church is a television station that carries programs, news, and resources with specific relevance to Seventh-day Adventists. You may watch Hope Channel Church streaming online at hopetv.org/church, Glorystar 124 or on Roku.

GOD among the million gods

OF THE
1.27 BILLION
PEOPLE IN INDIA

2.3% are Christians
50% are under the age of 25
40% speak Hindi

Every time I visit India, I am overwhelmed by the masses yet to hear the gospel story. There is always so much more to do for God in this country.

The Hope Channel studio in the city of Chennai in southern India produces programs in five of the major Indian languages—one of which is Hindi, a language spoken predominantly in northern India, but understood by almost half of the population. Those who participate in the Hindi programs travel from the north to the south—about twenty-three hours each way—for a few days of taping. This makes Hindi production expensive and complicated.

For two years we've been praying for a new studio in northern India so we can cost effectively produce more Hindi programs. And now our prayers have been answered: we now have a good location, all the equipment for a second studio, and the technical staff we need. We plan to begin construction in 2016.

In addition to this miraculous happening, I witnessed God turn a courtesy meeting into an amazing opportunity for Hope Channel. While I was in New Delhi, Hope Channel Manager Pastor Johnson and I stopped to visit a national television broadcast company. It was to be just a quick short meeting with no agenda, but of course, God was in control. When the executives heard about our plans for Hindi programs, they expressed great interest in carrying Hope Channel's Hindi channel on their digital distribution along with government channels—this would take Hope Channel to nearly half the nation's population. We left with the distinct sense that God's time plan for this project is on a faster track than we dreamed possible!

When Deepak lost his government job over a misunderstanding, he was very discouraged. Surfing the Internet one morning, he found Hope Channel India and heard a preacher tell him that God holds our future and has a plan for everyone of us. Curious about this God, Deepak called the number on the screen and was connected to Hope Channel's prayer center. Within a few weeks he was studying the Bible with a local church pastor. And he also got his job back—with a promotion!

Problems at home began to escalate for Prem, and finally his wife and children moved out. Depressed and alone, he could not concentrate at work. He was afraid he might also lose his job. Then one night he found Hope Channel India. The very next morning, he got in touch with a local pastor who visited him immediately. Over the next few weeks, Prem worked on his attitudes and personal issues. Today his family is back with him, and together they study God's Word.

Hope Channel Canada Now Coast to Coast

by Stan Jensen, Director, Hope Channel Canada

January 23, 2012 was huge for me. That was the day the Canadian Radio and Television Commission gave permission for Hope Channel to be broadcast on cable and satellite anywhere in Canada. This milestone led to negotiations with some cable companies, including Eastlink Cable, one of Canada's large, nationwide cable networks. As a result, as of December 2015, Hope Channel Canada is on Eastlink, channel #893, from coast to coast.

Being broadcast on Eastlink* is only the beginning. We want Hope Channel on all the other Canadian cable networks. If you live in Canada, contact your local cable company and tell them you want Hope Channel in your home. We need advocates for Hope Channel to team together and approach their local cable companies, big or small. If you belong to a church, tell your cable company your church can promote Hope Channel in your community.

I envision a day when Hope Channel Canada offers programs in all the major languages of the world so that Canada's diverse population can hear the gospel message in their native language. Millions are desperate for the wisdom that comes from the testimonies of people whose lives have been changed by the grace of God—and Hope Channel is the place to find the stories and resources that inspire people to live a wholesome, balanced, and rewarding life.

As of December 1, Hope Channel Canada is also broadcast on CityWest, Delta, and Coastal.*

Help Hope. Help Yourself.

Like many, you have probably been watching in dismay as your investments fluctuate wildly and your bank CD rates plummet to less than 1%. There isn't much security in knowing that your financial future can be tossed around by every market whim.

The good news is that with a charitable gift annuity, you can receive a generous fixed income with payments made to you or your loved ones for life. Not only will you help Hope Channel further the gospel broadcast but you will also receive fixed income for your lifetime.

Now is the time to lock in a generous payout rate based on your age.
